

NAZIS DESTROY RHINE BRIDGES TO HALT YANKS

The War Today..

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THE AVIDITY with which the inter-American conference at Mexico City is seeking to establish solidarity for the Western hemisphere in the interests of peace is a bright rainbow for the United Nations which will meet to create a global security organization in San Francisco in April.

The "Act of Chapultepec" would provide for the use of joint force to stifle aggression within the hemisphere, echoes the spirit of the Crimean conference of the Big Three who pledged themselves to peace at all costs. There are many in this hemisphere who hope the Americas may even bind themselves to stand as a bloc against any aggression from outside.

Undoubtedly the inter-American conference is wise to proceed without haste, in order not to undertake any commitment which might raise difficulties for the San Francisco meeting. However, observers generally see no reason why the world security organization shouldn't accommodate itself to a Western hemisphere peace bloc. Indeed, it seems to fit Prime Minister Churchill's idea for regional units within the peace plan.

If this terrible war has taught the Americas anything, it is that from now on they must stand together—one for all and all for one. This doesn't mean isolation or non-cooperation with the rest of the world. It means that if another Hitler or Tojo raises his head, we shall be on the alert to halt any schemes he may have for aggression. It means we recognize that if a would-be aggressor obtains a foothold in a single Western hemisphere country, he has a base from which he can strike at the rest.

One of the happiest aspects of the Mexico City conference, from the viewpoint of the "Act of Chapultepec," originates among our good neighbors and not in the United States. This means, as I see it, that there probably is as little suspicion of Uncle Sam's motives than there has been in some quarters heretofore. Maybe his attitude in this war has made it clear that he really has no designs against anybody, but is honestly interested in the welfare of his fellows.

It must be admitted that when nations enter such a pact they want to know a lot about their partners. One assumes that under a Western hemisphere pact the United States might be asked by smaller nations to deal with any infraction of the peace where force was necessary. If that assumption is correct, then the "Act of Chapultepec" is doubly a vote of confidence in Uncle Sam.

Bomber Chief Lost

Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, chief of the U.S. 20th Air Force Super Bomber command, has been lost in a plane crash in the Pacific, according to Army reports. (International)

MAKE WIDESPREAD SEARCH FOR PLANE WITH 10 ON BOARD

(By Associated Press) ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Pacific Ocean, March 3.—The Army reported today that Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, 57, commander of Army Air Force in the Pacific Ocean area and deputy commander of the 20th air force and nine other Army officers and enlisted men are missing in a flight over the Pacific.

All available air and surface craft were dispatched to the area in which the plane is believed to have gone down.

The Army described the continuing search by Army and Navy planes and ships as the most extensive search operation ever known in the Pacific.

An announcement by Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., commander of army forces in the Pacific Ocean area, said the general's personal plane in which they were making a routine flight failed to reach its destination.

Missing in addition to Gen. Harmon are: Brig. Gen. James R. Anderson of Washington, D. C., chief of staff of Gen. Harmon; Col. William Ball, Washington, D. C., executive officer for the deputy commander of operations, Army Air Forces, Pacific Ocean area; Maj. Francis E. Savage, Toga, Tex., pilot.

Pfc. Arthur Oscar, Kansas City, Mo., assistant engineer, whose full name was not available, was a passenger. Next of kin have been notified.

Last reports from the big transport plane indicated it had ample fuel supply for the remainder of the flight. Weather conditions in the area over which the plane flew were reported good and the sea was reported calm.

There was no indication whether the plane was flying through a combat zone and might have been attacked by Japanese aircraft or whether it may have crashed because of operational difficulties. Harmon, as deputy commander of the 20th Air Force, played a leading role in the Superfortress attacks on Tokyo.

Gen. Harmon, 57, is a native of San Francisco. A West Pointer, he was a fighter pilot in France in the first World War. Harmon commanded Army forces in the Solomon Islands fighting, winning the Distinguished Service medal.

In a recent interview Harmon said the Japanese would be "on their feet and fighting in 1946." He had a narrow escape from death on a torpedoed ship in June, 1943, and since has traveled the Pacific principally by plane.

PLANES RAID REICH ON 3RD STRAIGHT DAY

1,800 Bombers Hit Rail Centers Fleeing Enemy Troops Are Mauled

(By Associated Press) LONDON, March 3.—While Allied divebombers mauled the Germans along the Rhine, more than 1,800 U. S. Eighth air force planes flew into central and southeastern Germany for the third straight day and battered more than a dozen rail, oil and industrial targets essential to the Nazi war machine.

This great fleet, including 1,100 heavy bombers, gave Berlin another scare, then swung south over the Brunswick-Magdeburg region where 103 Nazi planes were destroyed yesterday.

The targets included three factories at Brunswick where tanks, trucks and oil refinery equipment are produced; four oil refineries northeast of Brunswick; large synthetic oil plants at Rothenese, Ruhland, 27 miles north of Dresden, and Milsburg.

One of the task forces of heavy bombers cracked the huge marshalling yards at Chemnitz for the second day running.

The German radio reported at least three formations over western and southwestern Germany before 10 a. m. An hour later the German news agency DNB left the air after announcing one formation was within 60 miles of Berlin.

Berlin Hit in Night

Last night RAF Mosquitos attacked Berlin with blockbusters for the 11th successive night and also bombed the railway center of Kassel, 110 miles east of Cologne, following up yesterday's hammering of the Reich by more than 6,000 Allied aircraft.

RAF Liberators and Halifaxes from Italy last night attacked the Porto Vecovo rail yards at Verona and left a number of fires in a follow-up to yesterday's blasting of German communications in northern Italy and Austria.

The German air force yesterday came up in strength for the first time since mid-January in an effort to stop 1,200 U. S. Eighth air force bombers and 700 fighters slashing at targets in southeastern Germany.

Incomplete reports showed 122 Nazi planes destroyed—86 in combat and 36 on the ground, by the Eighth and Tactical air forces.

While American artillery was blasting Cologne yesterday the RAF scored bulk-eye hits on two important escape bridges, and a third crippled as 100 Nazi motor vehicles were attempting to flee across.

Allied fighters from advanced bases on the continent shot down 19 Nazi planes—13 by the RAF and six by U. S. Ninth air force pilots.

They claimed the destruction of 265 motor vehicles, 21 tanks, 74 locomotives, 15 barges sunk and railways cut in 184 places.

Pilots reported that dozens of German trains were observed stalled by broken lines within 25 miles of the battlefield.

83RD DIVISION DIGS IN ON RHINE BANKS

WITH THE NINTH ARMY AT THE RHINE, March 3.—Soldiers of the Ninth army's 83rd infantry division, composed mainly of Ohioans, are dug in on the banks of the Rhine today after forming the Rhinehead which first led United States troops to the west bank of the river.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander, touring the front with the Ninth army commander, Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson, inspected the 83rd infantry outfit and expressed satisfaction with the progress of the offensive. He said casualties had been exceedingly light.

The battle-hardened division, led by Maj. Gen. Robert Macon, first gained fame at Rochefort, Belgium, where it helped blunt the German breakthrough.

Yanks Reach Rhine; Reds Strike for Baltic

Pincers on Germany tightened when the U. S. 9th and 1st Armies struck for the Rhine River and the Reds set a trap for thousands of Nazis in the Baltic area by reaching within 20 miles of Koenigsberg, last rail escape route for Germans trapped in the Danzig area. The Yankee 9th Army reached the Rhine across from Duesseldorf, while the 1st battled on the approaches to Cologne. Meanwhile, Allied bombing of German rail and communication centers continued.

RIVER WATERS STILL ON RISE

Dangers of Floods In Low Areas Increased By Overnight Rains

(By Associated Press) CINCINNATI, March 3.—The Ohio river rose 37 to 44.5 feet today, tomorrow or early Monday, Flood Forecaster George R. Marth announced shortly after 10 a. m. today, after a restudy of overnight rains which averaged more than an inch throughout the Ohio valley.

The stream topped 61 feet here at the rate of one tenth of a foot hour after a three-hour spurt between 4 a. m. and 7 a. m. at three-tenths. Flood stage hereabouts is 52 feet.

Upriver the average rise on a secondary crest was two tenths of a foot per hour on the heels of rain which aggregated 1.90 inches at Maysville, Ky., 1.12 at Wheeling, W. Va., 1.06 at Huntington, 1.30 at dam 23, above Huntington and 1.26 inches at Portsmouth, Louisville, Ky., reported 2.03.

Much colder weather—with a minimum of 20 to 25 tonight—likely will stay the runoff to some extent.

No Severe Damage Reported Aside from flood-blocked streets, and the usual exodus from homes hit annually by freshets, there was no great damage reported.

Rainfall of 7 to 15 inches over most of the Allegheny watershed.

Report Carrier Raid On Ryukyu Islands

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, March 3.—Without enemy air opposition, carrier aircraft of the U. S. Pacific fleet attacked the Ryukyu Islands, southwest of Japan March 3, striking at military, naval and air installations and shipping.

Forty-one enemy aircraft were destroyed, 50 more destroyed or damaged, a destroyer, six small cargo ships, 2 medium cargo ships, and four other small vessels were sunk. Probably sunk were one medium cargo ship, six small coastal cargo ships and six luggers.

The 83rd saw action in Brittany, captured the key town of St. Lo and later fought in southern France, taking into custody Germany Gen. Erich Elster and 20,000 prisoners.

Strike of Nazi Prisoners At Camp Perry Continues

CAMP PERRY, March 3.—German no-work agreement of 2,900 German prisoners of war entered its third day today as the former members of the Nazi wehrmacht continued on a bread and water diet.

Lt. Col. E. C. McCormick, Jr., Camp Perry commander, declared yesterday the prisoners would remain on the diet until their spokesmen notified officers they are willing to accept assigned tasks.

The prisoners were placed on the diet following their refusal to accept jobs in protest of a stockade officer's orders which the spokesmen described as too exacting.

Set Higher Goal, Longer Time For 7th Loan Drive

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Treasury is going after more money from individuals than ever before in the Seventh War Loan drive. And the sales period will be the longest yet.

From May 14 to June 30 individuals are asked to purchase $7,000,000,000 in bonds. The quota for corporations is also $7,000,000,000.

In the last drive the individual quota was $5,000,000,000. The highest previous individual quota was $6,000,000,000 and the greatest sales $6,351,000,000.

RED CROSS FUNDS HIT $10,207 MARK

Nearly one-third of Salem's $32,300 goal in the Red Cross War Fund drive has been reached in two days of soliciting, Miss Hazel Linn, executive secretary of Salem chapter, reported today.

The total raised is $10,207, including $7,772 in cash and $2,435 in pledges. Campaign leaders and workers are enthusiastic over the response to date.

Over-enthusiasm of boys and girls in a contest being conducted by a neighboring school was responsible for their solicitation of funds in Salem, it was discovered late yesterday.

Activities of the youngsters in Salem homes and business places created some confusion for the regular team workers who are out under the direction of Chairman Carl F. Willman. They collected considerable money, which will be turned over to the Salem campaign committee.

Children are not being used for the general solicitation in Salem.

Salem Motorist Injured When Car Hits Railing

Glenn Calvin, 16, R. D. 5, Salem, received lacerations of the right cheek and bruises of the body when he lost control of a car he was driving east on the Albany road at 11 p. m. yesterday.

The car swerved off the road and crashed into a guard rail, state patrolmen said.

Calvin was treated in a doctor's office in Greenford.

AIRPORT SOLD ON $8,100 BID

East Liverpool Interests Purchase Swaney Field At Sheriff's Sale

LISBON, March 3.—Unidentified East Liverpool persons represented by Atty. Walter B. Hill, acquired the Swaney airport just west of town for $8,100 at sheriff's sale Friday.

The hammer fell after 20 minutes of spirited bidding which opened with an offer of $5,000. Mike Turk of East Liverpool and another unidentified man helped run the bid above the $7,200 appraisal value set by A. J. Dietz, John Eldenre and J. B. Dickey, court appointed appraisers.

The foreclosure suit was begun July 2, 1939, by the Firestone bank of Lisbon which held a first mortgage on the 163-acre farm. A judgment and decree of foreclosure was rendered in October of 1939 in the amount of $5,998.35. The judgment remained unpaid until the balance had grown to $6,202.95 in November, 1940, at which time it was assigned to John Eiferd as trustee for W. J. Winland, L. W. Bricker, S. C. Porter, A. A. Welch, C. A. Smith, F. B. Little and Eiferd.

Eiferd at that time was substituted as plaintiff and prosecuted the action to its conclusion yesterday.

In the meantime the First National bank off East Liverpool set up a judgment in the sum of $3,110 against the property and the treasurer claimed a tax lien for $783.

Following Mr. Swaney's death last year Eiferd was appointed receiver by the court and on Jan. 8 the court ordered the property sold.

A large crowd estimated to be at least 50 persons watched the bidding on the courthouse steps. The purchaser did not indicate whom he represented and stated that he would direct the sheriff at a later date to whom the deed should be made. The East Liverpool First National bank is rumored to be the buyer.

Columbiana county commissioners hold a five year lease on the premises which will expire this year. This was taken for the purpose of building public funds to be used in improving the airport.

SEN. MOSES, N. DAKOTA DEMOCRAT, IS DEAD

ROCHESTER, Minn., March 3.—United States Senator John Moses (D-ND), three-time governor of North Dakota who won his national office by defeating Gerald P. Nye last fall, died early today.

Sen. Moses had been undergoing post-operative treatment at the Mayo clinic for an abdominal ailment when an attack of pleurisy complicated his recovery.

His wife and a son, Lt. James Moses, who came here yesterday were at his bedside. Another son, John, an army lieutenant, is recovering from a shrapnel wound received in France. A daughter, Mary Jean, is in the U. S. Nurses Cadet corps. A third son, Robert, also survives.

Moses was the first Democrat ever elected to represent North Dakota in Congress.

Divorce Filings High

LISBON, March 3.—Columbiana county's divorce rate continued to mount when the court docket today showed that out of the 90 cases filed in January and February of this year, 68 were for divorces.

250,000 U. S. Troops Mass For Crossing

(BULLETIN) WITH THE U. S. NINTH ARMY, March 3.—German troops blew all the bridges across the Rhine in the Duesseldorf area last night and early today as United States soldiers gained a foothold on the western approaches. The new News Bridge, built in 1929 with loans floated from the Allies, was among those blown.

(By The Associated Press) PARIS, March 3.—American troops 250,000 strong, fighting today for control of the Rhine bridges, battered to the river on a broadening front and thrust to within five miles of closing a Canadian-American trap on parts of two German armies.

Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's divisions in the north, making up the first parachute and 15th armies, were reported in headlong retreat behind rear guard defenses.

United States Ninth army men reached the Rhine at new points on a five-mile sector, burst through Krefeld, and in a northward push reached Geldern. The latter is five miles from the Canadian First army wheeling Germans back across the Rhine.

To the south, U. S. First army tanks and infantry spread the battle before Cologne into a dozen more villages and slammed within artillery range of the great Rhine stronghold along a curving 20-mile front. Last night they were but 4 1/2 miles from Cologne at one point.

Attempt To Cross River Berlin declared Ninth army forces were attempting to span the Rhine, and unofficial reports said the doughboys had crossed near Neuss, suburb of shell-ripped Duesseldorf. There was no confirmation of this report from direct field dispatches on Supreme headquarters.

In the middle of the Western front, the American Third army driving toward Coblenz advanced up to 3 1/2 miles on a 45-mile front, seized 13 more towns and 4,600 prisoners.

Americans and Canadians had seized fully three-fourths of all German territory west of the Rhine and north of Aachen. Field dispatches said Von Rundstedt was struggling to hold the Hochwald gap pivot as the Rhine escape pathway for perhaps 100,000 troops of two German armies in this area.

Ninth army men cut the road from Krefeld to the Rhine bridge at Uerdingen to the northeast. They reached the Rhine at Gartenstadt and captured Lank Latun.

At Neuss, farther south, 1,069 Germans guarding the bridges to Duesseldorf surrendered to attack of 300 Americans.

The Second armored and 83rd infantry divisions were either on the Rhine or within rifle range of it from Neuss to Lank Latun, just south of the bridge at Uerdingen.

3,000 Prisoners Seized Fischeim, south of Krefeld, fell as the Ninth army took 3,000 prisoners yesterday.

Almost 40,000 Nazis have been captured in the Allied offensive toward the Rhine, but masterly retreat tactics have saved Von Rundstedt from slaughter similar to the Falaise gap.

Cologne and Duesseldorf were under fire, and Duisburg was coming within range.

Ninth army troops striking north-east of Krefeld won Bruch, Wachtendonk, Sevelen and Niekerk in addition to Geldern, the latter five miles from Canadian army vanguards at Kevelaar.

A large crowd estimated to be at least 50 persons watched the bidding on the courthouse steps. The purchaser did not indicate whom he represented and stated that he would direct the sheriff at a later date to whom the deed should be made. The East Liverpool First National bank is rumored to be the buyer.

Senator Whittemore Is Lauded At Party

AKRON, March 3.—State Sen. Frank E. Whittemore, Ohio Republican party bellwether, was honored last night at a birthday party—but party lines were disregarded.

A dinner marking the senate majority leader's 75th birthday (next Tuesday) was attended by Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche, former Gov. John W. Bricker, 1944 Republican vice presidential nominee, and Democratic Former Gov. Martin L. Davey. Others present included Ed D. Schorr, state GOP chairman and Thomas E. Bateman, state senate clerk.

The guest list of 400 included virtually a state senate quorum. Lausche said of Whittemore "a composite of a good American." Bricker lauded Whittemore's "lifetime of wholesome and constructive service." The Ohio legislative correspondents association forwarded a tribute terming him "one of the best."

Six times senate majority leader, Whittemore first went to the general assembly in 1911.

Pfc. Eastek Removed Booby Traps To Win Silver Star Medal

Pfc. Alexander Eastek, home for a month's furlough after a year's service in Europe with the 4th Infantry, has been awarded the Silver Star medal for gallantry in action in Germany, Nov. 12. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Eastek, R. D. 5, Salem. The citation accompanying the medal reads:

"The platoon with which Pfc. Eastek served, as a quarter-ton vehicle driver, was ordered to the front lines to relieve an infantry company. The platoon set out on foot to reach the appointed destination by daybreak. While moving through the woods under enemy artillery fire, the entire group unknowingly entered a mined and booby-trapped section of the woods.

In the extreme darkness, an officer and three enlisted men were wounded by tripping wires which exploded booby traps. Pfc. Eastek improvised a pole and went about probing for the remaining mines and booby traps. Concession from the first mine which he detonated threw him violently to the ground. Dazed, but not seriously hurt, he continued the search, which was rewarded by another mine several yards away.

"Pfc. Eastek thereupon dropped to his knees, dug out the mine with his hands and disarmed it. He then went about exploding booby traps made with hand grenades wired to trees, thus making the area comparatively safe for the platoon to proceed on its mission. Pfc. Eastek's gallant actions undoubtedly prevented many casualties within his organization and are in keeping with the highest traditions of military service."

Newborn Baby Is Thrown From Window and Lives

CINCINNATI, March 3.—A newborn baby lived today, although seriously injured, after police said it was thrown from the third floor window of a downtown hotel, to land on the roof of a two-story building.

Patrolman George Yockey quoted the woman, who later was taken to general hospital, as saying she gave birth to the baby boy in the room, then wrapped it in newspaper and "threw it out of the window."

George Marton, hotel manager, said he heard the child's cries.

Seven Adjudged Insane

LISBON, March 3.—Ten sanity hearings held in Lisbon this week resulted in the commitment of seven persons to the Massillon State hospital, the dismissal of one case and another was postponed.

Allies In War and Peace

With one implication in President Roosevelt's report to Congress on the Crimea conference there will be sharp disagreement. It is the implication that the United States will have to bear responsibility for another war if it fails to ratify whatever terms of world collaboration may be submitted to the Senate.

Elsewhere in his report, Mr. Roosevelt speaks of peace as depending on the "cooperative effort of the whole world." He says that "the structure of world peace cannot be the work of one man, or one party, or one nation." There is an apparent contradiction between these words and the words of his warning to the Senate on the necessity of ratifying what was agreed upon at Yalta.

"There will soon be presented to the Senate of the United States and to the American people," he said, "a great decision which will determine the fate of the United States—and of the world—for generations to come. There can be no middle ground here. We shall have to take the responsibility for world collaboration, or we shall have to bear the responsibility for another world conflict."

For a generation Americans have been urged by Wilsonian idealists to scourge themselves with the lash of conscience for failing to ratify the Versailles treaty. We have had foisted on us by persons who should know better the single blame for bringing on the present war—a demonstration of nationalist megalomania without precedent. The present war was brought on by the failure of the nations which were attacked, including the United States, to comprehend the danger implicit in the aggressive attitude of the Axis. It is all there in the record—the squirming reluctance to apply sanctions, the eagerness to rely on appeasement, the unilateral decisions of Great Britain against French interests when Germany re-occupied the Rhineland and France favored action, the deals with Mussolini, the failure to stand together against Japan's military adventure in China. The United States, far from being the leader of isolationist thought, tried to avert its consequences. Though outside the League, it served the principles of the League far more faithfully than many of its members.

It is axiomatic, or rapidly is becoming axiomatic, that foreign policy must be the expression of popular will in the United States. There is no question but that the people favor collaboration for international security. But they cannot accept the premise that collaboration entails unquestioning compliance with all other national aims, or that to withhold consent to any part of a proposed structure of cooperative security would be to take single blame for the structure's failure to secure peace.

At this point in the momentous negotiations to continue the military alliance which is bringing victory into the postwar period as an alliance to secure peace, there is no reason to believe the people will block, or permit the Senate to block, any reasonably good plan. But they cannot agree that the United States bears single responsibility, any more than they can agree that any of the other participants bear single responsibility. International security is attainable only through international cooperation.

Mr. Roosevelt would do well to correct what may be an accidental impression that he is more concerned about the good faith of his own countrymen than about the good faith of the nations now drawing so heavily on that good faith for their survival.

Who Won?

The Senate's 56-32 confirmation of Henry A. Wallace's appointment to be Secretary of Commerce is a lukewarm mixture of triumph and rebuke. Mr. Wallace gets his political reward, heavily discounted by the Senate's previous action in removing the Federal loan agencies from his jurisdiction. The real issue remains to be decided: Who gets the loan agencies?

In trimming a cabinet position to fit its estimate of the occupant's capabilities, Congress has set a precedent. Heretofore, cabinet appointments either were confirmed or rejected outright. In four cases before the Civil war and two afterward, appointments were rejected. Usually, of course, as a gesture of confidence in the administration, confirmations are voted with little more than a formality of investigation.

Under the new precedent, if it is taken seriously, gestures of confidence and compliance with the unwritten rule (though not the Constitutional provision) that a President's cabinet selections are his personal business, may be less readily forthcoming. Jobs may be juggled to fit officials. It is not a healthy omen, but it has been created by a considerably less than healthy situation in which a politician rejected by his own party was publicly announced as the beneficiary of a pay-off. Whatever may have been President Roosevelt's curious reason for making so blunt a declaration, he has obtained a curious result. No congratulations are in order.

For Sunday, March 4.

SUNDAY'S Horoscope shows splendid spiritual uplift, with fine aspiration and intellectual and cultural ambitions graciously and generously aided and encouraged by those in authority and high station. It is a time to seek promotion, preferment, favors of more solid and tangible form. But curb temptation to rash, immoderate and impetuous moves running counter to public safety, as accidents or quarrels are a menace. "Remember the Sabbath" for dearest gratifications.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate and prepare for a year in which they may seek favors, honors, promotion and preferment from those in high places. Combine versatile talents, quick and concentrated energies and ideas for justification for such advanced objectives. Curb impulse and rash emotions lest wild or intemperate moods lead to accident, regrets, public penalties.

A child born on this day is well qualified and fortified for seeking high place and position, attracting attention and practical support from superiors, although having an ardent, impetuous and perhaps wayward tendency.

For Monday, March 5.

MONDAY'S Astrological forecast is for proper consideration of the personal element in pushing ahead to important and cherished goals, whether these concern the personal, business or professional objectives in life. It is admonished that all sorts of resources and assets be thoughtfully organized for success in opening doors to higher fulfillments. Personal charm, glamor, talents judiciously brought to bear may prove the open sesame to great desires.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of high achievement of the most cherished hopes and wishes, affecting either the personal, romantic or business aims and aspirations. These important goals are sure of the approbation and support of influential people. Culture, charm and magnetism may be discreetly drawn upon to further all worthy aspirations. However, beware dubious intrigues.

A child born on this day will be bounteously endowed for a useful, noble, influential and happy life, with personal charm and high ideals a factor.

The Age of Reason

By James Thrasher

The Democratic National committee, doubtless seated in a circle about a steaming cauldron, devised a way to close the rifts in party ranks. They would, it was decided, invoke the spirit of Thomas Jefferson instead of Andrew Jackson at their annual fundraising dinner, thereby soothing the feelings of their "Jeffersonian Democrat" members.

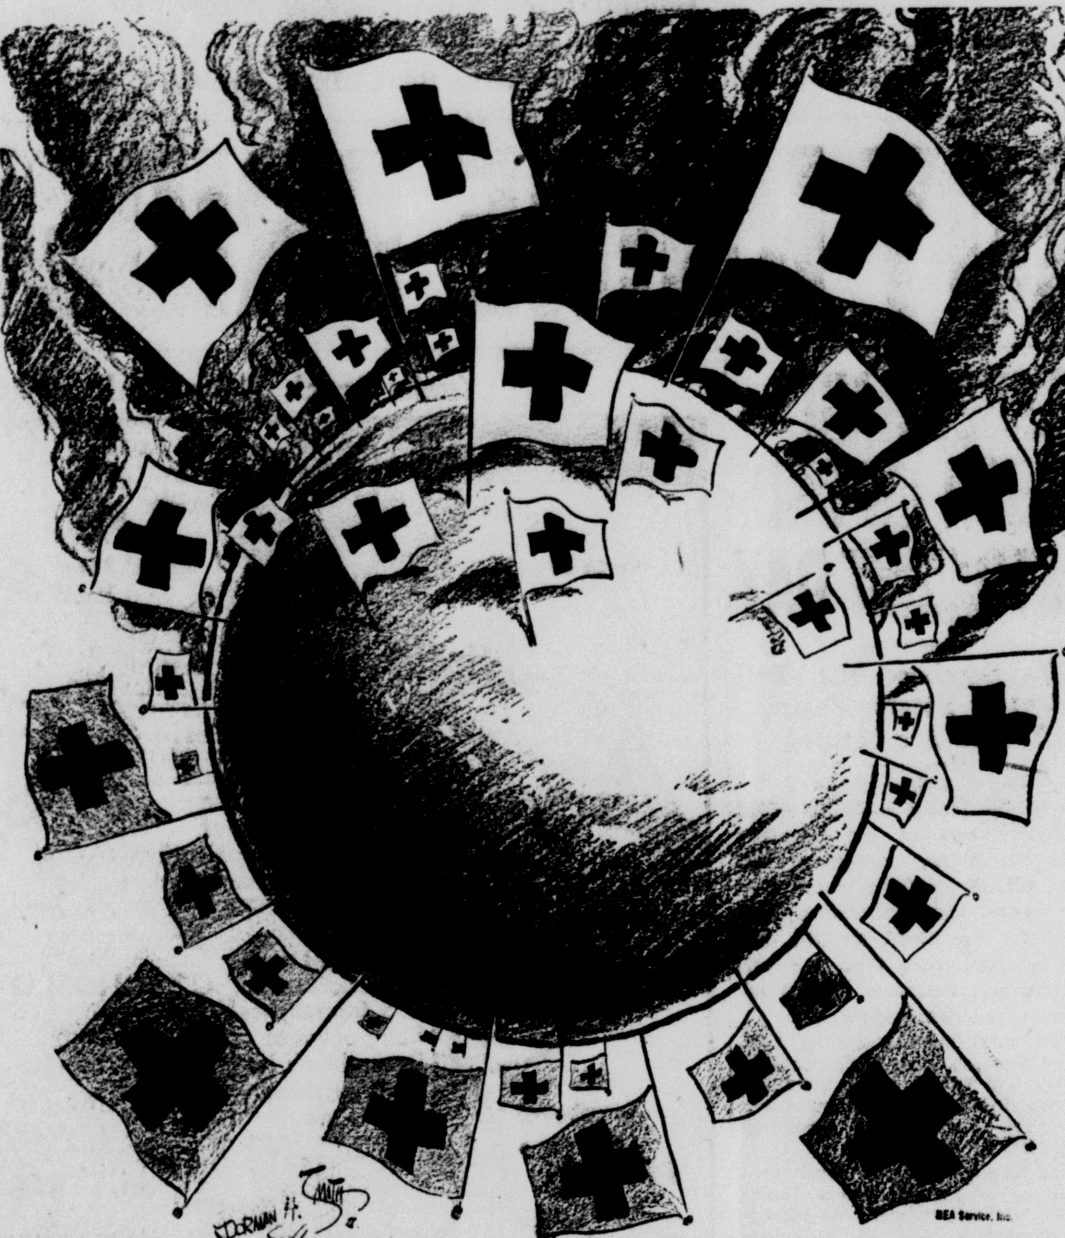

Then some of the chieftains outside the charmed circle raised an objection. The Jefferson day dinner would fall on Friday the 13th, a baleful fact that most certainly would spell the party's doom in the next elections.

We can't think of anything in this age of science and reason that has done more to renew our faith in witchcraft. We now suspect that it wasn't Mr. Hillman and the PAC that swung the November election, as most people believe. We prefer to believe that the Democratic National committee met one dark night beneath a mossy oak and stuck pins in the effigy of Governor Dewey.

Students at a dance in Wisconsin were reprimanded and sent home for dancing without lights. Called on account of darkness!

Pancreas Inflammation, Its Symptoms

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THE PANCREAS is a gland located within the abdomen. It does several things. For example, it makes a substance called insulin that is secreted directly into the blood, and which is needed for the use of sugar by the body. Then it makes other secretions, which flow into the intestine and aid in the digestion of food.

Inflammation of the pancreas may develop. The condition is called acute pancreatitis. It was formerly believed that a mild form of the disease is by no means unusual. And that is why doctors are always on the look-out for it.

Attacks of acute pancreatitis are likely to be mistaken for inflammation of the gallbladder, and pancreatitis tends to occur in connection with chronic gallbladder disease in at least three-fifths of the cases.

The symptoms of pancreatitis vary in their severity, depending on the extent of the inflammation. The main symptom is pain, which usually comes on several hours after a large meal or after drinking an excessive quantity of alcoholic beverages. The pain comes on suddenly, but persists, is quite severe, and seems to be located in the pit of the stomach or upper part of the abdomen. It usually passes directly through the back. There is a tendency for the pain to subside gradually after a period of hours. Sickness of the stomach and vomiting may be so severe that the condition is mistaken for blockage of the intestines.

Stiffness of the muscles and tenderness over the pancreas are likely to be present soon after the pain starts. It is not unusual for the patient to be prostrated, and shock or collapse may occur within a few hours. The number of white cells in the blood is usually increased to some extent.

In treating this disorder in severe cases, all fluids and foods taken by mouth are stopped. A tube is passed into the stomach through the mouth. Some sedative drug, such as morphine, may be injected under the skin by the physician in order to relieve the pain. Fluids in large amounts should also be given by injection under the skin or into a vein. Salt solution or glucose solution is employed. It also may be helpful to give insulin with the glucose solution. If shock or collapse is severe, injection of blood into a vein may be employed.

Operations to relieve this condition are not worthwhile, particularly during an acute attack. After the attack has subsided and the patient's general condition has improved, operation may be performed to get rid of disease affecting the gallbladder, in cases where gallbladder disease is present. If an abscess forms in the pancreas, an operation to drain the abscess is necessary.

The important thing about acute pancreatitis is that its symptoms be recognized so that the proper treatment may be immediately employed.

Keep your Red Cross at His Side

No amount of praise is too great for the deeds rendered by YOUR RED CROSS. Mrs. Smith hadn't heard from Johnny in three months—the RED CROSS located her son. Peter was dying from loss of blood—the RED CROSS supplied the plasma that helped him live. In a prison camp, Jack's spirit was all but broken—the RED CROSS helped to restore his courage. And the RED CROSS does even more than this. It gives our soldiers overseas peace of mind, for no matter how far they may be from their families, they know that should an emergency arise, the RED CROSS is standing by. Could you ask for more proof of the merciful way your dollars are spent when once they are put in the hands of the RED CROSS? Mr. Smith, Mr. Jones, Mr. Miller—this is your RED CROSS. Every act of mercy they perform is made possible by your generous contributions. Surely you will help them to continue their wonderful work by giving now.

Allies in War and Peace

With one implication in President Roosevelt's report to Congress on the Crimea conference there will be sharp disagreement. It is the implication that the United States will have to bear responsibility for another war if it fails to ratify whatever terms of world collaboration may be submitted to the Senate.

Elsewhere in his report, Mr. Roosevelt speaks of peace as depending on the "cooperative effort of the whole world". He says that "the structure of world peace cannot be the work of one man, or one party, or one nation". There is an apparent contradiction between these words and the words of his warning to the Senate on the necessity of ratifying what was agreed upon at Yalta.

"There will soon be presented to the Senate of the United States and to the American people," he said, "a great decision which will determine the fate of the United States—and of the world—for generations to come. There can be no middle ground here. We shall have to take the responsibility for world collaboration, or we shall have to bear the responsibility for another world conflict."

For a generation Americans have been urged by Wilsonian idealists to scourge themselves with the lash of conscience for failing to ratify the Versailles treaty. We have had foisted on us by persons who should know better the single blame for bringing on the present war—a demonstration of nationalist megalomania without precedent. The present war was brought on by the failure of the nations which were attacked, including the United States, to comprehend the danger implicit in the aggressive attitude of the Axis. It is all there in the record—the squirming reluctance to apply sanctions, the eagerness to rely on appeasement, the unilateral decisions of Great Britain against French interests when Germany re-occupied the Rhineland and France favored action, the deals with Mussolini, the failure to stand together against Japan's military adventure in China. The United States, far from being the leader of isolationist thought, tried to avert its consequences. Though outside the League, it served the principles of the League far more faithfully than many of its members.

It is axiomatic, or rapidly is becoming axiomatic, that foreign policy must be the expression of popular will in the United States. There is no question but that the people favor collaboration for international security. But they cannot accept the premise that collaboration entails unquestioning compliance with all other national aims, or that to withhold consent to any part of a proposed structure of cooperative security would be to take single blame for the structure's failure to secure peace.

At this point in the momentous negotiations to continue the military alliance which is bringing victory into the postwar period as an alliance to secure peace, there is no reason to believe the people will block, or permit the Senate to block, any reasonably good plan. But they cannot agree that the United States bears single responsibility, any more than they can agree that any of the other participants bear single responsibility. International security is attainable only through international cooperation.

Mr. Roosevelt would do well to correct what may be an accidental impression that he is more concerned about the good faith of his own countrymen than about the good faith of the nations now drawing so heavily on that good faith for their survival.

Who Won?

The Senate's 56-32 confirmation of Henry A. Wallace's appointment to be Secretary of Commerce is a lukewarm mixture of triumph and rebuke. Mr. Wallace gets his political reward, heavily discounted by the Senate's previous action in removing the Federal loan agencies from his jurisdiction. The real issue remains to be decided: Who gets the loan agencies?

In trimming a cabinet position to fit its estimate of the occupant's capabilities, Congress has set a precedent. Heretofore, cabinet appointments either were confirmed or rejected outright. In four cases before the Civil war and two afterward, appointments were rejected. Usually, of course, as a gesture of confidence in the administration, confirmations are voted with little more than a formality of investigation.

Under the new precedent, if it is taken seriously, gestures of confidence and compliance with the unwritten rule (though not the Constitutional provision) that a President's cabinet selections are his personal business, may be less readily forthcoming. Jobs may be juggled to fit officials. It is not a healthy omen, but it has been created by a considerably less than healthy situation in which a politician rejected by his own party was publicly announced as the beneficiary of a pay-off. Whatever may have been President Roosevelt's curious reason for making so blunt a declaration, he has obtained a curious result. No congratulations are in order.

570 ON YOUR DIAL

Keep your Red Cross at His Side . . .

No amount of praise is too great for the deeds rendered by YOUR RED CROSS. Mrs. Smith hadn't heard from Johnny in three months—the RED CROSS located her son. Peter was dying from loss of blood—the RED CROSS supplied the plasma that helped him live. In a prison camp, Jack's spirit was all but broken—the RED CROSS helped to restore his courage. And the RED CROSS does even more than this. It gives our soldiers overseas peace of mind, for no matter how far they may be from their families, they know that should an emergency arise, the RED CROSS is standing by. Could you ask for more proof of the merciful way your dollars are spent when once they are put in the hands of the RED CROSS? Mr. Smith, Mr. Jones, Mr. Miller—this is your RED CROSS. Every act of mercy they perform is made possible by your generous contributions. Surely you will help them to continue their wonderful work by giving now.

Keeping Home Ties Secure -- Giving Plasma to the Wounded -- Giving Sustenance to the Interned -- The Red Cross Lends a Hand!

Words can only enumerate the services extended by the Red Cross to service men and their families. But words can't begin to convey the security a fellow overseas feels when he knows the Red Cross has enabled his wife to be operated on or the heartfelt thanks of a discharged man in uniform whom the Red Cross helps back to a niche in civilian life even in the face of disability! Nor can words quite tell what it means when the Red Cross makes it possible to get home to see—perhaps for the last time—a dad or mother critically ill. Can words express what an interned American feels when the Red Cross passes him a box of food, smokes, mail from home? But let only words fail! Don't you fail to support the Red Cross by giving now — and giving more — to keep it at his side! Your Red Cross money goes far — in miles, and in service men's smiles!

The March meeting will be in charge of Clarence Crosser and the president, who have arranged a "World Tour In Song," a study of the songs of different lands.

Here Comes The Bride

In Fingertip Veil and "Album" Gown

By EPSIE KINARD

NEW YORK—For all of her speed in getting outfitted for the altar, today's bride can be turned out in white as traditionally as an antebellum Southern belle, whose hoopskirted mode of dress strongly influences current fashions.

All of the dreamy materials demanded by sentimental brides—net, organza, chiffon, nylon, mouseline de soie, creamy satin and paper-cripp taffeta—are used to make 1945 versions of the "album" wedding gown with the fitted bodice, long sleeves, and bouffant skirt. Some of these skirts come straight out of New York's musical "Bloomer Girl" to spread their charms with ruffles as a rumba dancer's.

Headress styles for brides feature finger-tip veils, which either fall from a bonnet, such as the one shown, or from a circlet or pancake of fluted net.

Attendants of the formally dressed bride will be outfitted in white or in soft springtime shades of aqua, lilac, pink, blue or maize, and will reflect Southern-belle influence in the styling of their gowns, as does the maid-of-honor's, shown right. Here, a sweetly old-fashioned dress of white marquisette is trimmed with pale blue embroidered banding, and keyed to the same daguerrotype charm is a pert little bonnet that ties under the chin.

CHAPTER FORTY

Aggie shot the bolt. He pushed the door open. Ahead was a long, dark passage. He followed it for a hundred yards. Its walls became rock. Cut in the wall, at that point, was a door; and on the door, another new bolt, as well as a heavy beam. He lifted the beam and slid the bolt. This door opened out.

Behind it was a chamber. The walls were rock. Ends of freshly broken roots spiked the ceiling. From somewhere inside came gurgling of water.

Aggie's torch, moving across the floor, touched a heap of opened tin cans and an old chair—and held for a moment on the opposite corner where a pool of water flowed slowly out of sight in a cavern no more than a foot high. The air in the place was tinged with a chemical smell, but it was not foul.

"Mr. Bogarty!" boomed Aggie. "There was no answer. He stepped into the room and moved his light. Then he held it very still. Stretched out on the floor—raggedly bearded and in filthy clothes—lay a man. At his side was a pall set on two stones and under it was an empty solidified-alcohol can. The man did not look like the Hank Bogarty of the photographs Aggie had seen—but it was Hank. Aggie thought for a moment that he was dead.

Aggie knelt and took the man's wrist. Hank's pulse was feeble. He had been there, Aggie thought, for weeks—supplied with food by his captor—and with canned heat, for cooking it. There was a mound of candle grease on the ground nearby. Aggie thought, for a moment, that exhaustion—fear—fury—shock—had prostrated Hank. Then he saw the real reason.

Hank's head lolled. On the side of it, toward the back, was a savage wound that had not healed. The wound was infected. Reddish streaks ran into Hank's scalp and down his neck.

Aggie considered two courses: Hank was a heavy man—and unconscious. To take him out would mean that he would have to be carried. To leave him to rot was to leave his captor would check up on the prisoner—and see the hole in the bricked window. Aggie knew enough about Hank's captor to shudder.

Then, taking a deep breath, Plum rolled Hank on his face, wormed underneath him, wrapped his right arm around a thigh and seized a wrist with his right hand. He picked up his light with his left hand and lifted it.

Aggie went back up the passage at a running walk. He climbed the steps swiftly. To lift Hank up and into the old window seemed at first impossible. Then Aggie saw he could do it by removing more bricks. He worked with frenzy. The radio overhead was still going—the feet were still thumping—but Aggie did not feel safe in that place.

When his task was ended and he was ready to try lifting Hank again, Aggie heard a slight creak—a sound disoriented from the others. Instantly, he switched off his light and peered up in the darkness. He saw—some distance away, between two of the floor joists that made the ceiling—a long thin wedge of dim light that disappeared as he looked at it.

Grimly, he lifted Hank again and thrust his head into the hole. Fiercely, he levered the big man up to it and pushed him through. He plunged after Hank even before the latter had fallen limply on the other side.

There was some sort of trap door that opened into the clubhouse. Under a rug probably. And whoever had put Hank down there had opened the trap a little—had seen Aggie's light—and closed it.

The professor thought of yelling. But it might take the people upstairs many minutes to find him. In the meanwhile—whoever had opened the trap door would have come out, and around the club. Then what?

The thing to do was to drag Hank to the hole under the sill, leave him there for a moment's reconnoitering, and come back. The tunnel would have to be enlarged for Hank. Aggie squirmed out. He stood in the sumacs, panting, sopping wet with sweat. He heard nothing. He waited, hiding against the side of the building. Still nothing. He ventured to crawl back and shine his light at Hank—and the space under the solarium. Hank lay still, breathing rapidly. Aggie began to widen the hole—and listen—and work again. Ten minutes later he dragged Hank through it.

Plum paused once more to consider. Suppose he picked up Hank again—walked boldly into the light—carried him around to the veranda—took him into the club? But . . . was someone waiting for him—out on the shadowy golf course—with a rifle? Would there be a couple of shots—and somebody running away in the night?

It was better, Aggie decided, to slip along the side of the club with Hank, and into the lilacs, and through them to where the sumacs met, and from there, down into the woods. He caught his breath and struggled to lift the man. Then—a shadow among the black shadows—he began to move.

Half an hour later, at the edge of the road in front of Sarah's cottage, Aggie waited for a car to pass and went across. He kicked at the screen door, and Sarah opened it. He staggered through the living room and into the butler's pantry where he stretched Hank on the floor and lay beside the man, struggling for breath.

The professor's appearance—dirty, sweat-soaked, bramble-torn—and his behavior—were a test of Sarah's nerve. But she understood, at least partly. To have possession of Hank Bogarty, now, was to be in as grave danger as Calder had once been—and George Davis. She

Benefit Social Is Held By Rural Youth Group

The Rural Youth organization held a benefit social at the meeting recently in charge of Vince Andrus and Howard Bailey.

The group enjoyed games, square dancing, and a short program of songs and plays.

During a business meeting which was in charge of the president, Jack Klein, the group arranged to turn the proceeds of the benefit over to the Red Cross.

The March meeting will be in charge of Clarence Crosser and the president, who have arranged a "World Tour In Song," a study of the songs of different lands.

Here Comes The Bride

In Fingertip Veil and "Album" Gown

By EPSIE KINARD

NEW YORK—For all of her speed in getting outfitted for the altar, today's bride can be turned out in white as traditionally as an antebellum Southern belle, whose hoopskirted mode of dress strongly influences current fashions.

All of the dreamy materials demanded by sentimental brides—net, organza, chiffon, nylon, mouseline de soie, creamy satin and paper-crip taffeta—are used to make 1945 versions of the "album" wedding gown with the fitted bodice, long sleeves, and bouffant skirt. Some of these skirts come straight out of New York's musical "Bloomer Girl" to spread their charms with ruffles as a rumba dancer's.

Head-dress styles for brides feature finger-tip veils, which either fall from a bonnet, such as the one shown, or from a circlet or pancake of fluted net.

Attendants of the formally dressed bride will be outfitted in white or in soft springtime shades of aqua, lilac, pink, blue or maize, and will reflect Southern-belle influence in the styling of their gowns, as does the maid-of-honor's, shown right. Here, a sweetly old-fashioned dress of white marquisette is trimmed with pale blue embroidered banding, and keyed to the same daguerotype charm is a pert little bonnet that ties under the chin.

BELOIT

Baked stuffed trout for meatless days.

Baked stuffed trout for meatless days.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Butter for use on Lenten fish is scarce. Better try a recipe using mayonnaise:

Stuffed Baked Fish

(Serves 6)

One trout (about 3 pounds), mayonnaise, salt, pepper, 1 cup bread crumbs, 3 tablespoons dry bread crumbs, 3 tablespoons grated onion, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1/4 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 egg, parsley sprigs or chives, lemon, radishes.

Have trout (or other fish suitable for stuffing) cleaned and boned at market. Spread inside of fish with real mayonnaise and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Mix carrot, bread crumbs, onion, parsley, lemon juice, egg, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. 1 tablespoon mayonnaise, together. Stuff fish and truss securely. Spread outside of fish with mayonnaise. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) one hour. Garnish with parsley or chives, lemon and radishes.

Here are other good Lenten novelties:

Corn flakes may be used as an especially attractive finish for fish and croquette mixtures which are fried in deep fat. Prepare the foods as directed below; then roll in corn flakes (slightly crushed), dip in egg mixture (1 egg, beaten with 3 tablespoons milk and dash of salt), and roll again in corn flakes. Fry in deep fat (325 to 350 deg. F.) 2 to 3 minutes, or until browned. Drain.

Fish (fillet of sole, cod, haddock, small fish). Use serving-size pieces of fish, cleaned, wiped dry, and seasoned.

Southern Croquettes. Use mashed sweet potatoes, well-seasoned, shaped into croquettes with dash of nutmeg and 1 teaspoon butter, or 1 teaspoon butter and 1/2 teaspoon brown sugar in center.

Explant. Use eggplant, pared, cut in 1/4 inch slices, and seasoned.

Law Forces Removal Of 20-Children Family

HAYDEN LAKE, Idaho — It's against the law to live in the State of Washington if you have more than six adopted children unless you have an orphanage license, so Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Arketa sold their $8,000 home at Kent, Wash., and moved here with their 20 children—18 of them adopted.

Eight years ago the Arketas went to Alaska to do missionary work and began adopting homeless and orphaned Indian children. When they moved to Kent they were informed of the unique Washington law and immediately applied for an orphanage license, but were told by the authorities that the state "didn't want any more institutions."

Undaunted, the Arketas, who assert proudly they have "never broken up a family," purchased a 10-acre farm here. Mrs. Arketa, good-naturedly admits she is "very much like the old woman who lived in a shoe," but has only one "minor" complaint. She has 20 children and no washing machine.

Corn flakes may be used as an especially attractive finish for fish and croquette mixtures which are fried in deep fat. Prepare the foods as directed below; then roll in corn flakes (slightly crushed), dip in egg mixture (1 egg, beaten with 3 tablespoons milk and dash of salt), and roll again in corn flakes. CHAPTER FORTY

Aggie shot the bolt. He pushed the door open. Ahead was a long, down-sloping passage. He followed it for a hundred yards. Its walls became rock. Cut in the wall, at that point, was a door, and on the door, another new bolt, as well as a heavy beam. He lifted the beam and slid the bolt. This door opened out.

Behind it was a chamber. The walls were rock. Ends of freshly broken roots spiked the ceiling. From somewhere inside came grating of water.

Aggie's torch, moving across the floor, touched a heap of open tin cans and an old chair—and held for a moment on the opposite corner where a pool of water flowed slowly out of sight in a cavern no more than a foot high. The air in the place was tinged with a chemical smell, but it was not foul.

"Mr. Bogarty!" boomed Aggie. There was no answer. He stepped into the room and moved his light. Then he held it very still. Stretched out on the floor—raggedly bearded and in filthy clothes—lay a man. At his side was a pile set on two stones and under it was an empty solidified-alcohol can. The man did not look like the Hank Bogarty of the photographs Aggie had seen—but it was Hank Aggie thought for a moment that he was dead.

Aggie knelt and took the man's wrist. Hank's pulse was feeble. He had been there, Aggie thought, for weeks—supplied with food by his captor and with canned heat, for cooking it. There was a mound of candle grease on the ground nearby. Aggie thought, for a moment, that exhaustion—fear—fury—shock—had prostrated Hank. Then he saw the real reason.

Hank's head lolled. On the side of it, toward the back, was a savage wound that had not healed. The wound was infected. Reddish streaks ran into Hank's scalp and down his neck.

Aggie considered two courses: Hank was a heavy man—and unconscious. To take him out would mean a long haul. To leave him for a sick man. To leave him to die—mean that his captor would check up on the prisoner—and see the hole in the brick wall. Aggie knew enough about Hank's captor to shudder.

Then, taking a deep breath, Plunk rolled Hank on his face, wormed underneath him, wrapped his right arm around a thigh and seized a wrist with his right hand. He picked up his light

Blind Family Keeps Home Neat As Pin

(By United Press)

STOUGHTON, Wis.—One of the neatest homes in the neat little community of Stoughton, Wis., is cared for by four persons who never see the results of their labors.

The four—two brothers and two sisters of the Erdahl family—all are deaf, dumb and blind, yet they manage their household chores with practically no assistance.

The youngest, Mabel, has the job of keeping her brothers and sister in touch with the outside world because she has learned to read Braille. She also adds to the family income by selling her dainty crochet work.

The task of caring for the furnace and supplying the house with kindling falls to Clarence, 48, who can split wood as easily as if he could see his woodpile.

Earl, 51, is the family gardener. He also fetches water from a next-door pump by following a clothesline as a guide.

The family's meals are prepared by Clara, 55, who can cook a tasty dish on the stove invisible to her. Moving with sure steps, she also keeps the home in first-rate order.

Born deaf and dumb, the Erdahls early learned to become independent despite a double handicap. Then, as each neared the age of 20, his eyesight began to fail and he had to learn to live in an invisible as well as silent world.

The only assistance the Erdahls now receive is from a neighbor woman, who talks with them through the "hand" language and who helps buy their groceries, handle their finances and assists with the washing. The rest of the chores, including ironing, are managed by the Erdahls alone, and they frequently help their niece with the field work at her farm.

Tokyo Residents Taking To Raid Shelters Daily

(By Associated Press)

Jittery Japanese, as reflected by Tokyo radio, took to bomb shelters at the appearance of even single American planes today.

The Tokyo reports said air raid alarms were occasioned by a single B-29 over the Kobe area around 9 a. m. and "enemy planes" south-west of Tokyo about 7 p. m.

Tokyo said "a total of 54" B-29s participated in an attack on Singapore and claimed three of the big bombers were damaged and "one is certain to have been shot down."

"Please, God . . ."

In one of the most dramatic photos to come out of the war, two United States Marines kneel in prayer during a brief lull in the fierce fighting for the Motoyama airstrip on Iwo Jima. The men are Pfc. Edmond L. Fadel, left, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Pvt. Walter Sokowski, of Syracuse, N. Y.

 ALL-WEATHER MAN SCOTTS AT COLD

LYNCHBURG, Va.—No matter how cold it gets, Sgt. Charles M. Watts wears no overcoat, muffler or gloves. He says he doesn't mind the cold and is "just used to it."

"I bought an overcoat when I was 18, but I wore it so seldom the moths ate it up." Somebody gave him one, but he didn't wear it. He also has a lightweight raincoat, but never wears it and suspects it's full of moths, too.

He makes one concession to the weather: On a rainy day, summer or winter, he carries a large umbrella.

HOT BEANS COST $20,000 IN FOXHOLE
 SPARTANBURG, S. C.—Capt. Charles E. Danaher, former adjutant of an Infantry training battalion at Camp Croft, here, wrote that he was lying in a foxhole in Germany with nothing to eat except two cans of cold beans. He had nothing to burn except a lot of German marks which he had heard were worthless. He kept a few for souvenirs and made a pretty good fire with the rest. Several days later he learned that the marks had really been good currency, and that heating his beans had cost $20,000.

TRIPLETS START ALPHABETICAL LINE

NORFOLK, Va.—When triplets arrived at the Norfolk General hospital, the first set in 40 years, everybody got pretty excited. To avoid confusion, the nurses tagged the infants "A," "B" and "C."

Pretty Mrs. William W. Sawyer, their mother, liked the idea so well she decided to tag the little girls permanently with the first three letters of the alphabet. She named them Anne, Barbara and Christine.

Salem Encounters Girard In Second Tourney Game At 8; Columbiana Wins 72-36 In Class B Inaugural At McDonald

Facing Stiff Test Against Indians Who Fell Here 54-43

Past the initial fray with Struthers, Salem's Quakers get deeper into Class A sectional tournament play at 8 tonight when they tangle once again with a troublesome Girard outfit which pressed them hard on the local floor, only to lose 54-43, about a month ago.

Coach O. C. Baumgartner's five has chalked up seven wins in 17 games this season and presents a weighty problem for any outfit to solve. If the Quakers can solve it, they will move into the quarter finals at Youngstown and will clash with the winner of tonight's Boardman-Wilson battle at 9 p. m. next Friday.

When the Quakers and Indians met here a month ago the Indians looked anything but a poor club. Salem was only able to maintain the lead by a slim margin most of the way and was tied twice in the second period before stepping out to win.

The score by quarters was 12-11, 28-22, 36-29. In the last frame Girard scored 14 to Salem's 16.

Absent tonight will be that home floor advantage and the fact that Girard already has performed on the South field house floor three times this season will be in their favor.

The Indians, with a first round bye, will be counting on the services of two standouts, Bill Beach, as clever a forward as appeared here this season, collected 19 points against Salem and worked well with big Al Michaels, who plays the other corner spot.

Beach displays an uncanny shooting ability and his shots are the kind that may come from anywhere at any time. Michaels, a bit off his scoring form when here, is capable of meshing 10 to 15 points a game and will have to be held in check if Salem is to triumph.

Forced again to play without Jimmie Appedisan, the game tonight is anything but a sure thing. Without the shifty guard, Coach Miller lacks some of that all-important reserve power that has made Salem so strong.

Should Ray Kelly have too many fouls called against him again and be forced to spend most of his time on the bench, Miller would have to call on less experienced men to play in what looms as a nip and tuck fray.

Although Bill Stout and Don Firth showed some improvement in the Struthers game Thursday, Miller cannot bank on them for exceptionally tight play.

Until Appedisan returns and a top-notch sixth man is available on the bench, Quaker power must function smoothly and without falter, if Salem expects to get a crack at Thins in the finals. Indications were today that Appedisan would be around for a Friday game next week, if there is a Salem Friday game.

Miller plans to start Walt Briha, who scored 25 points against Girard the last time, Muf Schaeffer, who got 12, Ray Kelly, who fouled out but collected four, Francis Lanney and Norm Smith. The last pair collected two each in the earlier game.

Girard will probably use Michaels and Beach at forwards, Bill Fehrs at center, Joe Flaver and Al Gohol at the guards.

Other games at the field house tonight have Louisville and East crack at 6 p. m., Chaney and Thins at 7, and Wilson against Boardman at 9.

EAGLE 4—Forfeit

Rapid Success Of Dick Twining, Record Swimmer, Is Hard Thing To Comprehend

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Dick Twining's rapid start in swimming reads like an Horatio Alger tale.

Prior to the first week of December, the 17-year-old North Carolina freshman had never swum, yet he not only won a leading position on one of the nation's best teams, but in two months acquired the national A. A. U. junior 220-yard free style championship.

He set a new pool record of 60.3 seconds in the 100-meter free style, and lost only one race all season — to Navy Captain Harley Mize by a whisker in the 220-yard free style.

When the son of Maj.-Gen. Nathan P. Twining matriculated at Chapel Hill last fall he had no idea of going out for athletics, unless he should decide to give tennis a whirl in the spring. Young Twining's father is in command of the 15th Air Force in Italy.

Talked Into Going Out

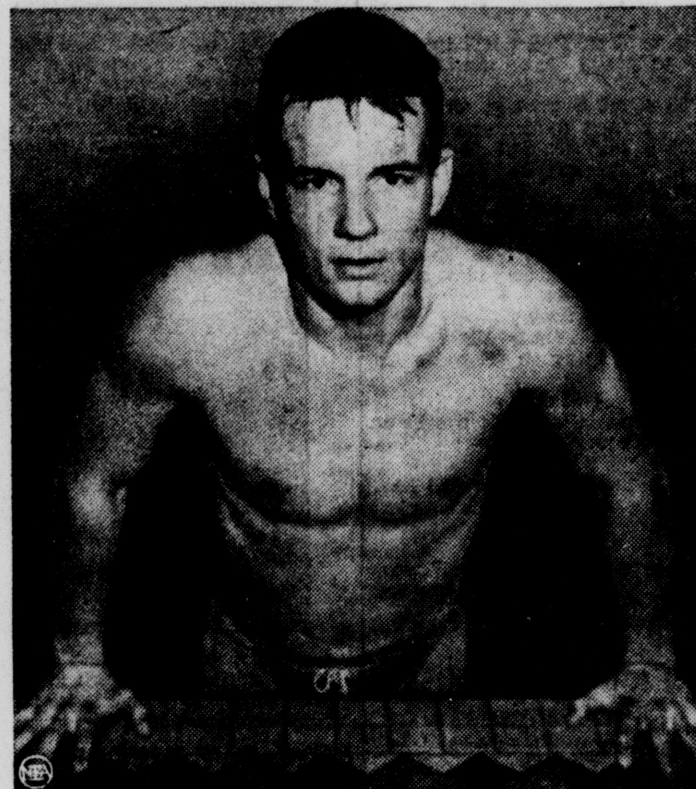

Twining's roommate was a member of the swimming team, as were a couple of fellows across the hall. His friends told him what a fine physical specimen he was, urged him to go out for the tank corps. Finally, early in December, in self defense he talked to Coach Willis Casey.

"How much swimming have you done?" he was asked.

"None," Twining replied. Casey almost fell off the bench. At the start, Twining was listed as a promising newcomer, but Casey stuck him in the opening meet with Georgia Tech just for the sake of experimentation. The results were amazing. He anchored the medley relay and swam the lead-off leg in the free style relay, both of which North Carolina won.

In the medley relay, the Chapel Hill combination set a Georgia Tech pool record—3:09.3.

In Twining's first individual race and only loss, Midshipman Mize had to turn in 2:23.3 to win the 220-yard free style. Forty-five minutes later Twining captured the 440-yard free style to enable the Tar Heels to come from behind and prevail in what to them was the most important meet of the year. His time was 5:21, six-tenths faster than the Southern Conference record.

Billy Kelly is another reason North Carolina was unbeaten in swimming. He holds four American records, has tied another and won three national junior championships. He broke three American marks in a week, including Walter Spence's 16-year-old record in the 150-meter individual medley long course with 1:49.3.

"Billy Kelly and Dick Twining got North Carolina there in a jiffy in the water."

Tournament Side Glances

RESULTS AT SOUTH
Memorial 39, Warren 32.
McKinley 54, Rayen 41.
Canton 76, 63, Brookfield 31.
South 50, Lehman 36.

The field in the Class A sectional at South High field house is down to 12 teams now. After tonight eight teams will remain in the competition to see which two teams go on to Kent and the regional.

Last night Warren fell by the boards to Memorial in a minor upset; Canton McKinley, putting in its tournament debut, downed Rayen to move into the quarter finals; Canton Township displayed more power by walloping a weak Brookfield squad, and Canton Lehman fell before a 50-point onslaught by South.

The largest crowd of the tournament so far—1,946 paid admissions—watched an evening jammed with good basketball. Both Canton Lehman and McKinley brought along large delegations, while South, playing at home, was naturally well cheered to victory.

In defeating Warren, Campbell Memorial's Bob Roper, six feet five and a half inches, was the brunt of the attack. Although Warren led 11-10 at the quarter, Memorial surged ahead 24-16 by halftime and was never headed. It was 31-22 by the end of the third frame.

Roper is tall enough to bear watching when Memorial collides with McKinley in the semi-finals at 8 Friday. He will give Jim Rawers of the Bulldogs something to think about.

McKinley, the type of team that never shows too much power but always wins—at least all but once—measured Rayen by 10 points. The Tigers approached to within five points as the final began but couldn't overcome the margin. Salem defeated Rayen by 14 points on Rayen's floor.

Rawers got 15 points and Hank Smith, at forward, notched 10 to lead the tourney favorites. The Bulldogs, coached by an old veteran, "Bup" Rearick, make sure they have a shot before they take it and spend the balance of the time handling the ball. Hence, this low scoring average.

Canton Township had easy meat. Brookfield provided practically no quality in their fight but they had loads of quantity. The Township lads loom as the most potent "dark horse" material available at the moment. They will move into a fray with seeded Youngstown South at 9 Friday.

Canton Lehman put up a battle for a little better than one quarter and then faltered against superior height and shooting advantages on South's part. Al Beach's lads are troublesome, there can be no question of that. A large lad by the name of Eugene "Duke" Barrett is the potent factor in South's attack and defense, despite the fact that he doesn't score heavily.

Bob Stanton of South got 17 last night and Lewy Wright of Lehman 10. Napoleon Bell, South forward and cousin of Tommy Bell, the fighter, subbed and nabbed 10 for himself. Jerry Wuske of Lehman pulled some of the best and most difficult shooting yet seen in the field house.

The loss last night ended a 17-game supremacy in the field house for Coach Jim Robinson and his lads of Lehman. It was the first and only time in four years of play that Canton has been beaten there.

Clippers Roll Off Score With Ease; Leetonia Out

A steaming Columbiana basketball team—still unbeaten after 17 games—roared to one of the Class B tourney's most impressive victories last night at McDonald as they rolled over a supposedly strong Champion team 72-36 in the most lopsided triumph of the small school sectional.

Before a full house at McDonald's medium sized gymnasium, the Clippers dumped through a rain of two-pointers—totaling 27 in all—in the second quarter to clinch their opening tournament game and earn their way into the sectional finals this evening.

Leetonia Eliminated

In the other games at McDonald last night, Leavittsburg's high scoring outfit found themselves in a real battle, but defeated Leetonia, the tourney's surprise team, 40-28. Leavittsburg goes on to Kent.

Lowellville topped Springfield township, a team which bumped them in the county tournament, 52-43, to win the right to meet Columbiana tonight.

The mighty Clippers, by far the smoothest-working and highest-scoring outfit in the sectional affair, met Lowellville in a test at 9 tonight.

Although the score was the highest so far, it could have run much higher. Coach John Cabas inserted substitutes in the second frame and used almost a full second string group through the third and fourth quarters, but the score still continued to mount.

Columbiana got off to an 18-8 lead in the first frame, due almost entirely to the uncanny accuracy of Harry Case, who got nine of his 20 points in that period.

In the second Clippertown basketers and fans, nearly four hundred strong, had a hey-day. The red-hot cagers dumped in 27 points and ran their margin to 45-14 by halftime. Champion managed only six points during the eight-minute nightmare.

Displaying a passing attack that functioned with neatness around the figure eight offense, Coach Cabas' charges showed themselves to be something to be considered in this Class B affair.

Harry Case, captain and main cog in the ball handling scheme, was the big gun for the first frame, but another demon, Larry Keck, stepped out in the second to notch 14 of his 20 points.

In the third period, when Columbiana got 16 more points to seven for Champion, big Harry Hollinger had his spurt. The lanky six foot four center collected 11 during those eight minutes. He totaled 19.

An all around club, the Clippers also showed two excellent floor men in Bill Newell and Keith Laughlin. Both hard fighting lads turned up in top shows and were invaluable to the clock-like precision of the attack.

At the foul line Columbiana dumped through 14 of 26 tries while Champion got six of 16.

Despite the fact that Champion was stocked with three men over six feet and one 5'11", the Clippers found little trouble in rebounding and controlling the boards all the way.

One of the highlights of the fray was the performance of Larry Keck, who got the rebounds and cashed in 20 points despite the fact that

Rapid Success Of Dick Twining, Record Swimmer, Is Hard Thing To Comprehend

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. Dick Twining's rapid start in swimming reads like an Horatio Alger tale.

Prior to the first week of December, the 17-year-old North Carolina freshman had never swum, yet he not only won a leading position on one of the nation's best teams, but in two months acquired the national A. A. U. junior 220-yard free style championship.

He set a new pool record of 60.3 seconds in the 100-meter free style, and lost only one race all season — to Navy Captain Harley Mize by a whisker in the 220-yard free style.

When the son of Maj.-Gen. Nathan P. Twining matriculated at Chapel Hill last fall he had no idea of going out for athletics, unless he should decide to give tennis a whirl in the spring. Young Twining's father is in command of the 15th Air Force in Italy.

Talked Into Going Out

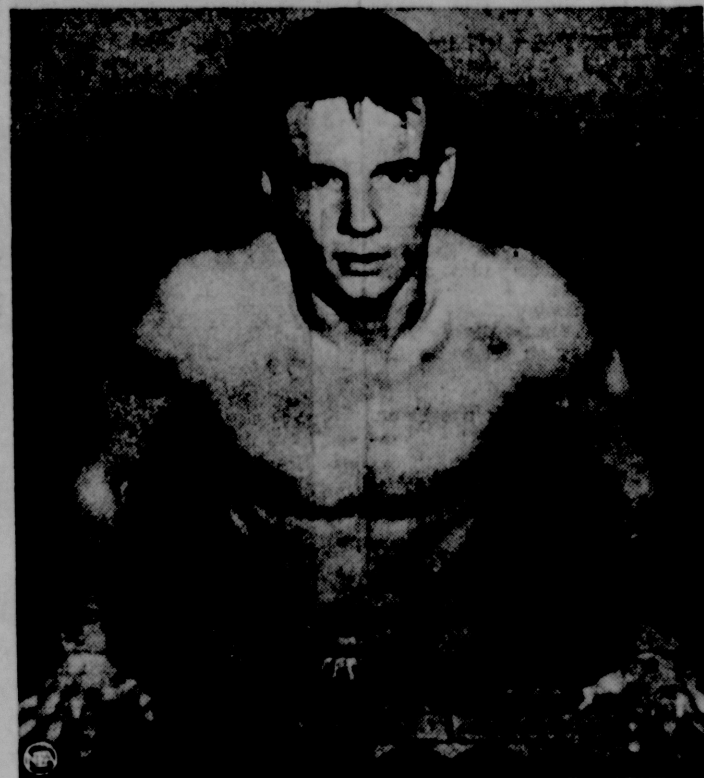

Twining's roommate was a member of the swimming team, as were a couple of fellows across the hall. His friends told him what a fine physical specimen he was, urged him to go out for the tank corps. Finally, early in December, in self defense he talked to Coach Willis Casey.

"How much swimming have you done?" he was asked. "None," Twining replied. Casey almost fell off the bench. At the start, Twining was listed as a promising newcomer, but Casey stuck him in the opening meet with Georgia Tech just for the sake of experimentation. The results were amazing. He anchored the medley relay and swam the lead-off leg in the free style relay, both of which North Carolina won.

In the medley relay, the Chapel Hill combination set a Georgia Tech pool record—3:09.3. In Twining's first individual race and only loss, Midshipman Mize had to turn in 2:23.3 to win the 220-yard free style. Forty-five minutes later Twining captured the 440-yard free style to enable the Tar Heels to come from behind and prevail in what to them was the most important meet of the year. His time was 5:21, six-tenths faster than the Southern Conference record.

Kelly Lends a Hand It was in the second Georgia Tech meet that Twining set a new Bowman Gray pool mark of 60.3 seconds for the 100-meter free style, breaking the old 61.4. That night in the Carolinas A. A. U. meet he bagged the national junior championship in the 220-yard free style.

In the season's finale against

Dick Twining never swam before, yet won national junior championship and set pool record.

Duke, Twining capped the 220 and 440-yard free style events to lead North Carolina to a 50-25 victory and clinch the southern and Southern Conference championships.

Billy Kelly is another reason North Carolina was unbeaten in swimming. He holds four American records, has tied another and won three national junior championships. He broke three American marks in a week including Walter Spence's 16-year-old record in the 150-meter individual medley long course with 1:49.3. "Billy Kelly and Dick Twining get North Carolina there in a jiffy in the water."

Tournament Side Glances

RESULTS AT SOUTH
Memorial 39, Warren 32.
McKinley 51, Rayen 41.
Canton Twp. 63, Brookfield 31.
South 50, Lehman 36.

The field in the Class A sectional at South High field house is down to 12 teams now. After tonight eight teams will remain in the competition to see which two teams go on to Kent and the regional.

Last night Warren fell by the boards to Memorial in a minor upset; Canton McKinley, putting in its tournament debut, downed Rayen to move into the quarter finals; Canton Township displayed more power by walloping a weak Brookfield squad, and Canton Lehman fell before a 50-point onslaught by South.

The largest crowd of the tournament so far—1,946 paid admissions—watched an evening jammed with good basketball. Both Canton Lehman and McKinley brought along large delegations, while South, playing at home, was naturally well received by victory.

In defeating Warren, Campbell Memorial's Bob Roper, six feet five and a half inches, was the brunt of the attack. Although Warren led 11-10 at the quarter, Memorial surged ahead 24-16 by halftime and was never headed. It was 31-22 by the end of the third frame.

Roper is tall enough to bear watching when Memorial collides with McKinley in the semi-finals at 8 Friday. He will give big Jim Rawers of the Bulldogs something to think about.

McKinley, the type of team that never shows too much power but always wins at least all but once—measured Rayen by 10 points. The Tigers approached to within five points as the final began but couldn't overcome the margin. Salem defeated Rayen by 14 points on Rayen's floor.

Rawers got 15 points and Hank Smith, at forward, notched 10 to lead the tourney favorites. The Bulldogs, coached by an old veteran, "Bup" Rearick, make sure they have a shot before they take it and spend the balance of the time handling the ball. Hence, this low scoring average.

Canton Township had easy meat. Brookfield provided practically no quality in their fight but they had loads of quantity. The Township lads loom as the most potent "dark horse" material available at the moment. They will move into a fray with seeded Youngstown South at 9 Friday.

Canton Lehman put up a battle for a little better than one quarter and then faltered against superior height and shooting advantages on South's part. Al Beach's lads are troublesome, there can be no question of that. A large lad by the name of Eugene "Duke" Barrett is the potent factor in South's attack and defense, despite the fact that he doesn't score heavily.

Bob Stanton of South got 17 last night and Lew Wright of Lehman 10. Napoleon Bell, South forward and cousin of Tommy Bell, the fighter, subbed and nabbed 10 for himself. Jerry Wiske of Lehman pulled some of the best and most difficult shooting yet seen in the field house.

The loss last night ended a 17-game supremacy in the field house for Coach Jim Robinson and his lads of Lehman. It was the first and only time in four years of play that Canton has been beaten there.

Clippers Roll Off Score With Ease; Leetonia Out

A steaming Columbiana basketball team—still unbeaten after 17 games—roared to one of the Class B tourney's most impressive victories last night at McDonald as they rolled over a supposedly strong Champion team 72-36 in the most lopsided triumph of the small school sectional.

Before a full house at McDonald's medium sized gymnasium, the Clippers dumped through a rain of two-pointers—totaling 27 in all—in the second quarter to clinch their opening tournament game and earn their way into the sectional finals this evening.

Leetonia Eliminated

In the other games at McDonald last night, Leavittsburg's high scoring outfit found themselves in a real battle, but defeated Leetonia, the tourney's surprise team, 40-28. Leavittsburg goes on to Kent.

Lowellville topped Springfield township, a team which bumped them in the county tournament, 52-43, to win the right to meet Columbiana tonight.

The mighty Clippers, by far the smoothest-working and highest-scoring outfit in the sectional affair, met Lowellville in a test at 9 tonight.

Although the score was the highest so far, it could have run much higher. Coach John Cabas inserted substitutes in the second frame and used almost a full second string group through the third and fourth quarters, but the score still continued to mount.

Columbiana got off to an 18-8 lead in the first frame, due almost entirely to the uncanny accuracy of Harry Case, who got nine of his 20 points in that period.

In the second Clipperton basketballers and fans, nearly four hundred strong, had a hey-day. The red-hot cagers dumped in 27 points and ran their margin to 45-14 by halftime. Champion managed only six points during the eight-minute nightmare.

Displaying a passing attack that functioned with neatness around the figure eight offense, Coach Cabas' charges showed themselves to be something to be considered in this Class B affair.

Harry Case, captain and main cog in the ball handling scheme, was the big gun for the first frame, and another demon, Larry Keek, stepped out in the second to notch 14 of his 20 points.

In the third period, when Columbiana got 16 more points to seven for Champion, big Harry Hollinger had his spree. The lanky six foot four inch center collected 11 during those eight minutes. He totalled 19.

An all around club, the Clippers also showed two excellent floor men in Bill Newell and Keith Laughlin. Both hard fighting lads turned up in top shows and were invaluable to the clock-like precision of the attack.

At the foul line Columbiana dumped through 14 of 26 tries while Champion got six of 16.

Despite the fact that Champion was stocked with three men over six feet and one 5' 11", the Clippers found little trouble in rebounding and controlling the boards all the way.

One of the highlights of the fray was the performance of Larry Keek, who got the rebounds and cashed in 20 points despite the fact that

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our dear daughter and granddaughter, Judith Arlene Brudery, who passed away three years ago tomorrow, March 4, 1942:

No stain was on her little heart,
Sin had not entered there;
And innocence slept sweetly on
That pale white brow so fair.
She was too pure for this cold earth.

Too beautiful to stay,
And so God's Holy Angel bore
Our darling one away.

OBITUARY

BAILEY INFANT

Rev. and Mrs. Charles Bailey of Damascus have received word of the death of their three-weeks-old granddaughter, Lola Mae, at Adrian, Mich., on Friday.

The parents, Rev. and Mrs. Walter Bailey, recently resided here. Rev. Walter Bailey was pastor of the Millville Community church until accepting the pastorate of the Friends church at Adrian.

RIVER

last night will bring a crest of 24.5 to 25.5 feet in the Ohio river at Pittsburgh at 4 a. m. tomorrow, the U. S. Weather bureau predicted.

Flood stage is 25 feet. The river stood at 19.4 feet at 9 a. m. and was rising at the rate of a tenth of a foot an hour.

The Weather bureau said rainfall was lightest in the upper reaches of the Allegheny. Rain has stopped in most of the area and colder weather was predicted.

These conditions were expected to allay somewhat the flood fears at Kinzua, nine miles above Warren, where ice gorges in the Allegheny was forcing the river out of its banks and threatening to flood a number of homes.

Some citizens of the community yesterday moved household goods to the second floor off their homes and several evacuated.

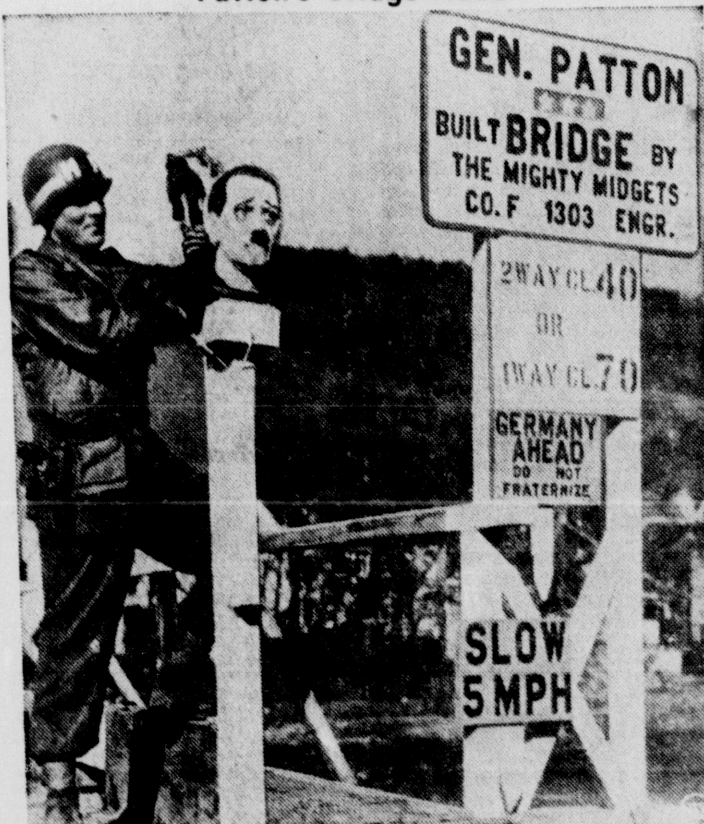

In Columbus, Adj. Gen. Donald P. Pancost ordered the First and Second divisions of the Ohio state militia for flood duty at Manchester, O. He reported that since last Tuesday approximately 200 persons have been given emergency housing in the Steubenville area.

Hold Up Night Club

CINCINNATI, March 3.—Four men robbed the Kenridge club, suburban night spot, of between $2,500 and $5,000 in cash last night and took valuables valued at $2,000 from five guests, Deputy Sheriff Albert Shelton reported.

The 1940 federal census listed nearly 3,000,000 adults who had never attended any school and 2,000,000 children, aged six to 15, who were not attending any school.

Trade U. S. Synthetic
For Brazil Crude Rubber

RIO DE JANEIRO—Export by the United States to Brazil of synthetic rubber to exchange for added supplies of natural crude has been arranged here. The new agreement contemplates use of the synthetic by Brazil's rubber industry which is making tires and tubes, many of which are being exported to the United States.

Supplementing earlier agreements in which Brazil agreed to boost rubber production and limit her own industry to the use of 10,000 tons of crude annually, the current pact will give the American industry more crude to mix with its synthetic and permit Brazil's manufacturers to expand beyond their former 10,000-ton limitation.

First allotment of U. S. synthetic to Brazil will be 2,500 tons with more available if Brazil can use it.

THE THEATER

Showing four days, Sunday through Wednesday, "Here Come the Waves" brings Bing Crosby, Betty Hutton and Sonny Tufts to the State in a musical tribute to the women's branch of the Navy.

Van Johnson has his first starring role in "Between Two Women" which will be the feature Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the State. June Allyson, Marilyn Maxwell and Lionel Barrymore are in the cast.

A new Blondie comedy "Leave It To Blondie" with the regular "family" cast of Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake and Larry Simms, and a film based on the popular radio program, "I Love a Mystery" featuring Jim Bannon and Nina Foch, will make up the double bill at the Grand Sunday and Monday.

"Claudia" starring Dorothy McGuire with Robert Young and Ina Claire will be seen with "Bombers' Moon" featuring George Montgomery, Annabella and Kent Taylor, at the Grand Tuesday and Wednesday.

At the Grand Thursday through Saturday will be "Stagecoach to Monterey" with Alan Lane and "Dangerous Passage" with Robert Lowery and Phyllis Brooks.

SNOW

ground was bare four days in January after a start on Dec. 11. Average temperature was 24, with 18 below in February as the lowest and the most snow, 28.8 inches, in January. The snow left Feb. 27.

In 1917-18 snowfall was 37 inches, from Dec. 8 to Feb. 7, a total of 63 days. Average temperature was 18, with 14 below in December, 23 below in January and 17 below in February.

First snow in 1944-45 fell Dec. 11 and the ground was covered for 66 days until Feb. 15. Total snowfall was 33.5 inches, average temperature 29.1. Coldest records were 17 below in December, 11 below in January and 5 below in February.

There wasn't much difference in the number of days of snow covering in the three big winters; 1909-10 had the heaviest snowfall, 1917-18 was the coldest and 1944-45 the warmest.

Two Thirds of Jap
Army In China, Says
Gen. Joseph Stilwell

CLEVELAND, March 3.—The best of the Japanese army will be met in Manchuria, predicts Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, U. S. Army Ground Forces commander, pointing out that two thirds of Nippon's warriors are in China now.

The former commander of American and Chinese troops in China and Burma made the predictions last night in a question period following his address to the Cleveland Ordnance association here.

Stilwell was asked if it will be necessary to defeat Japan in China and replied: "Two thirds of the Japanese army is in China right now. It is as strong as it was when the war started."

Asked if the Japs have used their best troops in China, he answered: "The Jap divisions there are heavy in numbers—23,000 to a division instead of the usual 12,000. The best of the Japanese army will be met in Manchuria."

In his speech, the four star general declared that when the American soldier gets back home, he is going to wonder about a lot of things, especially why everybody could not have borne an equal share of the load.

"It has become apparent to most of us that what we need is not an overwhelming superiority in any one weapon . . . but a well-balanced force of all of them," Stilwell asserted. "Now that we are getting this more realistic view of the all-important role of the ground forces, I hope to see more attention paid to the lads who carry the ball."

2 Salineville Brothers

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, March 3.—Further profit cashing had a shade the best of the stock market argument today and, while assorted favorites achieved some progress, numerous leaders were a trifle depressed.

Offerings became a bit more insistent after a slightly unequipped opening and declines of fractions to a point were plentiful for a while. Selective bidding supply arrived near the close. Single blocks of low-quoted issues put the two-hour turnover at around 700,000 shares.

The good war news served as a "cautionary investment factor" many customers stood aside to await a technical correction of the lengthy swing to new average highs since 1937.

Pvt. Paul Tuseck Hurt
In Belgium January 26

LISBON, March 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Matt Tuseck of West Point, have received word from the War department, that their son Pvt. Paul Tuseck, had been slightly wounded during fighting in Belgium on Jan. 26.

He has been overseas two years with the paratroops and this is the second time that he has been injured. He was wounded the first time March 15, 1944, while fighting in Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuseck have three other sons in the service. Corp. Victor Tuseck with the Medical Corps in Belgium, who met his brother Paul a few days before he was wounded. Pfc. John Tuseck with the Infantry in Belgium and Matt Tuseck, S. 2 C. of the U. S. Navy.

ground was bare four days in January after a start on Dec. 11. Average temperature was 24, with 18 below in February as the lowest and the most snow, 28.8 inches, in January. The snow left Feb. 27.

In 1917-18 snowfall was 37 inches, from Dec. 8 to Feb. 7, a total of 63 days. Average temperature was 18, with 14 below in December, 23 below in January and 17 below in February.

First snow in 1944-45 fell Dec. 11 and the ground was covered for 66 days until Feb. 15. Total snowfall was 33.5 inches, average temperature 29.1. Coldest records were 17 below in December, 11 below in January and 5 below in February.

There wasn't much difference in the number of days of snow covering in the three big winters; 1909-10 had the heaviest snowfall, 1917-18 was the coldest and 1944-45 the warmest.

Two Thirds of Jap
Army In China, Says
Gen. Joseph Stilwell

CLEVELAND, March 3.—The best of the Japanese army will be met in Manchuria, predicts Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, U. S. Army Ground Forces commander, pointing out that two thirds of Nippon's warriors are in China now.

The former commander of American and Chinese troops in China and Burma made the predictions last night in a question period following his address to the Cleveland Ordnance association here.

Stilwell was asked if it will be necessary to defeat Japan in China and replied: "Two thirds of the Japanese army is in China right now. It is as strong as it was when the war started."

Asked if the Japs have used their best troops in China, he answered: "The Jap divisions there are heavy in numbers—23,000 to a division instead of the usual 12,000. The best of the Japanese army will be met in Manchuria."

In his speech, the four star general declared that when the American soldier gets back home, he is going to wonder about a lot of things, especially why everybody could not have borne an equal share of the load.

"It has become apparent to most of us that what we need is not an overwhelming superiority in any one weapon . . . but a well balanced force of all of them," Stilwell asserted. "Now that we are getting this more realistic view of the all-important role of the ground forces, I hope to see more attention paid to the lads who carry the ball."

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, March 3.—Further profit cashing had a shade the best of the stock market argument today and, while assorted favorably achieved some progress, numerous leaders were a trifle depressed.

Offerings became a bit more insistent after a slightly uneven opening and declines of fractions to a point were plentiful for a while. Selective bidding supported near the close. Sizable blocks of low-quoted issues put the two-hour turnover at around 700,000 shares.

The good war news served as a cautionary investment factor. Many customers stood aside to await a technical correction of the lengthening swing to new average highs since 1937.

Laggards the greater part of the proceedings were Chesapeake and Ohio, Southern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Standard Oil (N. J.), Allied Chemical, U. S. Rubber, Anaconda and General Electric.

Pvt. Paul Tusek Hurt
In Belgium January 26

LISBON, March 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Matt Tusek of West Point, have received word from the War department, that their son Pvt. Paul Tusek, had been slightly wounded during fighting in Belgium on Jan. 26.

He has been overseas two years with the paratroops and this is the second time that he has been injured. He was wounded the first time March 15, 1944, while fighting in Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Tusek have three other sons in the service. Corp. Victor Tusek with the Medical Corps in Belgium, who met his brother Paul a few days before he was wounded; Pfc. John Tusek with the Infantry in Belgium and Matt Tusek, S. 2 C, of the U. S. Navy.
